DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: There were no mentions of the use of graphite as a possible material for the element of claim 10.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear whether the element is made from one, or a multitude of combination of the materials listed. If it is the applicant's intention to make this a Markush claim, then the claim is an improper Markush claim, and proper wording is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3643

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 9, 11-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by European Patent Application EP 0 872 317 to Arai.

Regarding claim 9, the reference of Arai discloses a system for destroying rock that includes a cartridge (3) that forms an enclosure, a propellant (4) inside the enclosure, and at least one element (5) which is made from inert material but can be electrically energized to initiate combustion.

Regarding claim 11, the cartridge (3) is cylindrical, and has a base and a domed end which opposes the base as seen in Figs. 1-3. Webster's dictionary defines malleable as "capable of being extended or shaped by beating with a hammer or by the pressure of rollers", Arai discloses the cartridge as made from synthetic resin or glass, both of which can be either extended or shaped by various means.

Regarding claim 12, the electrical leads extend from terminals on an outer side of the cartridge to the element

Regarding claim 13, Arai discloses a removable closure (8), which covers the terminals.

Regarding claim 14, the device of Arai includes a substrate (6) on which is element is mounted, and which is embedded in the propellant as seen in Fig 1.

Regarding claim 15, Arai did disclose a charging control circuit (111) that controls the operation of the element (5).

Regarding claim 16, the element that is thin metal wire (5) is indeed in the form of elongate filament.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The following patents are cited to further show the state of the art with respect to cartridge used in rock breaking or drilling:

U.S. Patent No. 5,765,923 to Watson et al.

U.S. Patent No. 3,307,445 to Stadler et al.
